HOOVER RAISES 'STATE SOCIALISM' ISSUE

CONTROVERSY MAY DOMINATE WHOLE CAMPAIGN

HOOVER DENOUNCED SMITH'S
IDEA OF PROHIBITION
MODIFICATION

DEMOCRATIC FARM RELIEF AND
THE WATERPOWER PROPOSALS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 25. — Herbert Hoover found today he had stirred up a controversy that probably will dominate the campaign until its close 12 days hence when he denounced Governor Alfred E. Smith's modification, farm relief and waterpower proposals as "state socialism."

The republican candidate today was studying Smith's Boston speech last night in which the democratic candidate ridiculed the "socialistic" attack. He likewise gave his attention to the harsh criticism of his Madison Square Garden speech by Senator George Norris of Nebraska, independent republican leader, who has declared for Smith.

Hoover was considering whether the fusillade will make it necessary for him to take up the issue again on his own behalf in the final campaign speech he will make at St. Louis on November 2 on his way west. He announced last night he would speak on farm relief and inland waterways chiefly, with some attention to other issues, in that address. The republican candidate may decide to ignore Smith's reply. He has declined heretofore to be drawn into any debate.

Smith, it appears, is going to emphasize the "socialistic" attack. He has been waiting since the outset of the campaign for a tangible target, for Hoover to say something directly about his program. He now has it. He considers the last few days of a campaign the most important. He probably will use this ammunition to the limit, in a play for the "break" in the closing days. It revolves around his three leading issues.

Whether Hoover says anything further may depend upon just how persistent his opponent becomes and what Norris says in his speech Saturday night, formally declaring for Smith.

The Nebraska senator's word carried weight with those who followed the late Senator LaFollette in 1924, especially in the northwest. He said Hoover's Madison Square Garden speech "slapped every progressive minded man and woman in America in the face." He thereby raised the issue directly.

It gives Norris an immediate weapon beyond his general opposition to Hoover, which he will set forth in detail in his Saturday night speech. Both republican and democratic leaders are studying the probable effect of Norris' support of Smith and making their own speculations. Hoover, himself, declined to comment on Norris' move.

Hoover has completed his campaign itinerary. He will leave here about 5 o'clock on the afternoon of November 1, stop at Cumberland, Maryland, and Louisville, Kentucky, for short platform talks, and arrive in St. Louis late on the afternoon of November 2.

He will leave immediately after his speech in the coliseum there for the west.

He has cut down his back platform appearances on the trip west on account of the late departure, announcing that after he leaves St. Louis only necessary operating stops will be made.

"This is no speech-making tour," Hoover explained. "I'm just going home to vote."

LIGHT AUTOGIRO PLANES PLACED ON MARKET SOON

London, Oct. 25.—(UP)—"Light" Autogiro airplanes will be placed on the market soon, according to Juan De La Cierva, the plane's inventor. As a result of his recent wide tour of Continental Europe in a larger type autogiro De La Cierva said he believed his invention had passed the experimental stage and had demonstrated its practical value.

21 PERSONS HURT WHEN 3 TRUCKS AND CAR SMASH

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Twenty-one workmen were injured, several seriously, in a collision between three trucks and a touring car at North Haven today. The injured were employees of the Connecticut (Trolley) company and were enroute to work at Wallingford in two trucks.

HOOVER LEADS IN LITERARY DIGEST POLL, 44 STATES

LATEST FIGURES INDICATE RE-PUBLICANS MAY INVADE
THE "SOLID SOUTH"

SMITH'S MAIN STRENGTH IS NOW FROM DEMOCRATS RATHER THAN REPUBLICANS

Hoover is shown holding his strong lead over Smith in the semi-final returns of The Literary Digest nation-wide Presidential poll published today and there are impressive indications that the Republicans may capture several states in the "Solid South" that have been democratic for more than fifty years.

Of a grand total of over 2,700,000 votes tabulated this week Hoover has 1,717,041 and Smith polls 971,356, a ratio of approximately 63 to 36.

With the returns announced as nearly complete from all sections of the country Hoover is ahead in every state with the exception of Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, which Smith is carrying with ample reserves.

Though the republican candidate has a plurality in Alabama and Arkansas, his margin is so scant that The Literary Digest classes the outcome in both states as doubtful.

Texas, which has the largest electoral vote of all the southern states, is for Hoover by 51,269 to 34,683 votes in this "post-card election."

Florida shows a return of 17,247 to 9,162, or almost 2 to 1, for the republican nominee and the democratic strongholds of North Carolina and Virginia evidence striking pluralities for Hoover.

The republican candidate is obtaining a majority of his strength from the democratic ranks in all ten states of the south with the exception of Virginia and North Carolina, where most of his votes are shown to be from his own party.

The border states of Kentucky, Maryland, Oklahoma and Tennessee are each returning comfortable pluralities for Hoover. In Oklahoma, he has a lead over his opponent of 2½ to 1.

In the northwestern states of Wisconsin, Minnesota and North and South Dakota, which are classed as "doubtful" by many political authorities, The Literary Digest poll shows Hoover leading by odds as high as 2½ to 1.

In the LaFollette-Progressive center of Wisconsin, with returns from Milwaukee included, the republicans are polling 31,841 votes to the democrats' 22,071.

In Maine, where a republican governor was elected by a 3 to 1 majority in September of this year, Hoover is receiving 15,624 votes to Smith's 5,361.

Governor Smith's home state of New York gives him 183,420 to Hoover's 215,548 which figures are stated to be inclusive of New York City. New Jersey, considered as one of the battle grounds of the current campaign, gives Hoover a lead in this week's returns of 55,296 to 20,816.

In a separate section of the poll in which the entire electorate of several large cities is being polled, Smith has a decided advantage in New York City with 139,020 votes to Hoover's 103,847 while Hoover leads in Chicago by 98,363 to 70,769 and in Philadelphia by 69,494 to 48,172.

The analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1924" indicates that the democratic standard bearer is now receiving almost 62 per cent of his support from his own party whereas in the earlier returns more than one-half of his votes were from former republicans. Over three-fourths of the Hoover ballots are from 1924 republicans and 23 per cent are switching to him from his rival party.

Truck Line Competition in Territory Between St. Paul and Moorhead Opened by Commission

RATES OF MOTOR EXPRESS COMPANY ARE REDUCED

OPERATION LIMITS OF OTTERTAIL
TRUCK LINES ARE

MOVE TO COMBAT THE FARGO-
WATERTOWN FREIGHT RATES
IN EFFECT

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Truck line competition in the territory between St. Paul and Moorhead was opened today by a railroad and warehouse commission order which reduced rates of the Minnesota Motor Express Company and removed operation limits of the Ottertail truck lines.

The move was seen as another step on the part of the commission to combat the so-called Fargo-Watertown freight rates in effect on Northwestern railroad.

Under the commission order the express company rates were lowered to the level of other truck lines rates which are approximately 25 per cent lower than those charged by railroads.

Removal of operation limits in the Ottertail truck line territory was said by the commission to establish uniform freight rates in that section in the best interests of the public.

Truck lines affected by the order were: Raymont Bros., St. Cloud; Koestling and Rakec, Barnesville; the Ottertail truck lines; Richard Chase and Robert Schmidt, Alexandria.

The Minnesota Motor Express Co. will operate under a zoning system using the regular freight rates. The first zone will include the territory between the Twin Cities and Sauk Center; the second, Sauk Center to Moorhead. Interzone shipments will be 90 per cent higher than the regular truck freight rates as will be the inter-truck line shipments of the other companies.

ATTITUDE TOWARD WORLD WAR VETS IS UNDER FIRE

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The resignation of Chief of Police James E. Davis because of his "attitude toward world war veterans" was demanded at a stormy session of the city council yesterday.

A resolution asking that Chief Davis give up his office was referred to the police and fire commission for recommendation.

Edwardsville, Ill., Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Back in 1910, when Edward N. James, a veteran of the Civil war, was 70 years old, Miss Novena Smith of De Soto, Mo., was born. Yesterday they were married here by Justice of the Peace J. B. Dale, to whom they gave their ages as 88 and 18 respectively.

Mrs. James explained that for three years she had been keeping house for James, a retired farmer of Collinsville, Ill.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE TROOPER IS KIDNAPED

FORCED TO ACT AS DECOY IN A
HOLDUP AT BELAIR,
LAST NIGHT

FINALLY GIVEN FREEDOM BY
WOMAN AND TWO MEN

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 25.—(UP)—A Pennsylvania state trooper was kidnaped on the road near Lancaster, Pa., by a woman and two men last night, forced to act as a decoy in a Belair holdup, and finally was given his freedom on the Washington boulevard near Laurel. The trooper reported the kidnapping to Baltimore police today.

The officer is Russell Troupe, who said he was inspecting the headlights on automobiles near Lancaster last night when kidnaped.

According to Troupe, the holdup trio had a machine gun and about a dozen pistols in the car.

As he stopped their machine to examine their lights, the three pointed pistols at him and forced him to enter their auto, he said.

Troupe said they brought him to Belair, where they forced him at the point of pistols to stop an approaching automobile and hold up the occupants.

Troupe was let out of the auto after his gun and badge had been taken.

TO DELIVER SPEECH FOR SMITH
AT OMAHA TOMORROW NIGHT

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Praised on one side and condemned on the other, Sen. George W. Norris, republican, was due here tomorrow night to deliver a speech urging voters to support Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for president.

Interest today centered on the reaction of Nebraska farmers, it being conceded that the main strength of Norris is in the rural sections.

The Nebraska Progressive League for Smith will meet Sen. Norris when he arrives from Seattle at 7:45 Friday evening. Later he will be the guest of honor at a reception sponsored by the league.

In a statement issued today, Arthur F. Mullen, democratic national committeeman, predicted that the action of Sen. Norris in turning against Herbert Hoover, his party's nominee, will not only influence votes in the corn belt, but in the south as well.

"In the south, Norris is idolized because of his fight for Muscle Shoals," Mullen said.

Republican leaders, however, declared the action of Norris came too late to influence votes, even in Nebraska, and unofficially predicted that the Nebraska senator would be punished by the withholding of desirable committee appointments.

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF FORMER KAISER TRICK CIRCUS RIDER

Paris, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Alexander Zoubkoff, brother-in-law of the former Kaiser, has signed with a French circus as a trick rider.

The circus has been appearing in Luxembourg and Italy. Zoubkoff could not follow the circus to Italy because he had no passport visa, but he is scheduled to appear in public when the circus returns to France.

Riding with a circus will only be another incident in the checkered career of the young Russian, who stirred the bitter wrath of the Hohenzollerns when he married Princess Victoria of Schaumbourg Lippe, sister of the ex-Kaiser. The princess is 62.

GOVERNOR SMITH ASSAILS ELEMENT OF REACTIONARIES

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE GIVEN
BOSTON

STARTS OUT ON 12-HOUR CAM-PAIGN THROUGH RHODE IS-
LAND, CONNECTICUT

By PAUL R. MALLON

Boston, Oct. 25.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith left a ringing cry against what he called the reactionary element of the republican party in the capital of this vital electoral state and set out today for a twelve-hour campaign through Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The democratic nominee carried with him the memory of a great reception as he started on his second phase of the all-important eastern seaboard battle.

His itinerary was to take him through Blackstone, Mass., into Providence, Rhode Island, by motor and thereafter by train through Hartford, Waterbury, Derby, Shelton, New Haven, Bridgeport and South Norwalk before he arrives in New York at 10:30 P. M.

His Boston appearance was an astounding and pleasant experience from which his friends drew deductions that he could easily carry the state. The Boston newspapers, republican and democratic, compared the reception to that of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh whose demonstration was up to this time unsurpassed.

The fact that he was saved from the mobs of over-enthusiastic and curious crowds was a miracle at which even the Boston police force marvel. They tried to protect him and Mrs. Smith during the parade and they were equally unsuccessful in their efforts to curb the seething throngs at the arena where he spoke.

In his speech last night, at which 13,000 persons were massed in the arena and 17,000 more were connected at two other halls by loud speakers, Smith made his answer to the Madison Square Garden speech of Herbert Hoover, his republican opponent. He took as his text Hoover's promise to "use words to convey meaning, not to hide it."

The candidate contended Hoover's attitude on farm relief, prohibition and water power was "a use of language to cover up something." He quoted as advocates of his platform upon these issues, former Pres. Roosevelt's gubernatorial campaigns in New York.

He pictured to the audience the possibility of Edmund H. Machold, New York republican chairman, suggesting to Hoover in a New York hotel room the possibility that a "socialism" charge might be the best answer to Smith's program.

The nominee again called attention to Chairman Work's renewal of the Sinclair Salt Creek oil lease when Work was secretary of the interior last February.

Taking up water power development as the first issue to be discussed, the governor said that not only was Hoover's acceptance speech vague on the subject, but his August 18 speech at Los Angeles also failed to express frankly the republican candidate's position.

If Hoover classed him as a "state socialist" because he stood for governmental ownership and control of public water power sites, he added, then Charles Evans Hughes, the late Theodore Roosevelt, Owen D. Young and other leading republicans "also are socialists." They stood with him on that issue, he asserted.

"Do not let them get a monopoly on what belongs to the state," the governor quoted President Roosevelt as saying of the "water power barons."

Turning to the farm relief issue, the candidate said: "We materially add to the ranks

CARRY BATTLE INTO THEIR OWN HOME TOWNS

SHIPSTEAD PREPARES TO MAKE TWO ADDRESSES IN ST. PAUL

NELSON SCHEDULED FOR THREE SPEECHES IN MINNE-APOLIS

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Senator Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor candidate for re-election and Arthur E. Nelson, his republican opponent, today carried their campaign battles into the home town of their adversaries.

Shipstead, who promised recently during a Shrine luncheon in Minneapolis that he would soon answer Nelson's questions on how he stood on the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act and the presidential race, prepared to address two political gatherings in St. Paul, Nelson's home town.

Nelson, who has repeatedly stated that he is opposed to the repeal of the prohibition laws and is in favor of Herbert Hoover, was scheduled to deliver three speeches in Minneapolis, where Shipstead makes his home. In his fight for support in the Twin Cities, the former St. Paul mayor will be aided tonight by John R. Quinn of California, former commander of the American Legion. The past commander will deliver an address for Nelson over KSTP from 6:30 to 7 P. M.

The republican candidate spoke four times in northern Minnesota yesterday and now is expected to devote the remainder of his efforts before November 6 in and about the Twin Cities.

Outside of the senatorial fight the most important development in the present campaign was the announced cancellation of a northwest speaking tour by Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska.

Governor McMullen, who was scheduled to address gatherings at Madison Saturday, St. Cloud Monday and Owatonna Tuesday, was said to have requested the cancellations because of pressing official duties.

It is understood, however, that the Nebraska governor who was to have stumped Minnesota, the Dakotas and other northwest states for Herbert Hoover, may have been reluctant to take sides against Senator George Norris of his own state, who has announced he will campaign for Governor Smith.

Norris, unofficial spokesman for the progressive bloc in the senate, will give his first Smith speech at Omaha Saturday night. The insurgent leader recently delivered two addresses in Minnesota in behalf of Senator Shipstead. His decision to throw his weight on the side of Smith caused little surprise since at Fairmont he bitterly assailed Hoover for his stand on Muscle Shoals.

McMullen's reported decision to retire from active work in the campaign also comes with little surprise. He is known to be a great admirer of Senator Norris and could hardly be expected to oppose him.

of the state socialist party when we take in the members of congress of both parties in both houses at Washington who twice voted for the principle set forth in my stand for farm relief.

"Former Governor Lowden of Illinois, according to the candidate's Monday night declaration, is an active and militant member of the state socialist party. Let me not at this time overlook the vice-president of the United States who, because of his advocacy of the principle set forth in my speech of acceptance, would become a member of the state socialist party.

"How must it ring in the ears of the farmers in the wheat and corn belt of the country to have the republican candidate on Monday night at Madison Square Garden line them all up with the state socialist party."

Reactionaries, the candidate said, had raised the cry of socialism at every advance in progressive legislation. He cited the workmen's compensation laws, pension measures to aid widowed mothers, and acts for the protection of women in industry as examples.

Linking the prohibition issue with the "state socialism" charge, Governor Smith said:

"Where does Mr. Hoover's do-noth-

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Truck line competition in the territory between St. Paul and Moorhead was opened today by a railroad and warehouse commission order which reduced rates of the Minnesota Motor Express Company and removed operation limits of the Ottotail truck lines.

The move was seen as another step on the part of the commission to combat the so-called Fargo-Watertown freight rates in effect on Northwestern railroad.

Under the commission order the express company rates were lowered to the level of other truck lines rates which are approximately 25 per cent lower than those charged by railroads.

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Senator Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor candidate for re-election and Arthur E. Nelson, his republican opponent, today carried their campaign battles into the home town of their adversaries.

Shipstead, who promised recently during a Shrine luncheon in Minneapolis that he would soon answer Nelson's questions on how he stood on the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act and the presidential race, prepared to address two political gatherings in St. Paul, Nelson's home town.

Nelson, who has repeatedly stated that he is opposed to the repeal of the prohibition laws and is in favor of Herbert Hoover, was scheduled to deliver three speeches in Minneapolis, where Shipstead makes his home. In his fight for support in the Twin Cities, the former St. Paul mayor will be aided tonight by John R. Quinn of California, former commander of the American Legion. The past commander will deliver an address for Nelson over KSTP from 6:30 to 7 P. M.

The republican candidate spoke four times in northern Minnesota yesterday and now is expected to devote the remainder of his efforts before November 6 in and about the Twin Cities.

Outside of the senatorial fight the most important development in the present campaign was the announced cancellation of a northwest speaking tour by Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska.

Governor McMullen, who was scheduled to address gatherings at Madison Saturday, St. Cloud Monday and Owatonna Tuesday, was said to have requested the cancellations because of pressing official duties.

It is understood, however, that the Nebraska governor who was to have stumped Minnesota, the Dakotas and other northwest states for Herbert Hoover, may have been reluctant to take sides against Senator George Norris of his own state, who has announced he will campaign for Governor Smith.

Norris, unofficial spokesman for the progressive bloc in the senate, will give his first Smith speech at Omaha Saturday night. The insurgent leader recently delivered two addresses in Minnesota in behalf of Senator Shipstead. His decision to throw his weight on the side of Smith caused little surprise since at Fairmont he bitterly assailed Hoover for his stand on Muscle Shoals.

McMullen's reported decision to retire from active work in the campaign also comes with little surprise. He is known to be a great admirer of Senator Norris and could hardly be expected to oppose him.

of the state socialist party when we take in the members of congress of both parties in both houses at Washington who twice voted for the principle set forth in my stand for farm relief.

"Former Governor Lowden of Illinois, according to the candidate's Monday night declaration, is an active and militant member of the state socialist party. Let me not at this time overlook the vice-president of the United States who, because of his advocacy of the principle set forth in my speech of acceptance, would become a member of the state socialist party.

"How must it ring in the ears of the farmers in the wheat and corn belt of the country to have the republican candidate on Monday night at Madison Square Garden line them all up with the state socialist party." Reactionaries, the candidate said, had raised the cry of socialism at every advance in progressive legislation. He cited the workmen's compensation laws, pension measures to aid widowed mothers, and acts for the protection of women in industry as examples.

Linking the prohibition issue with the "state socialism" charge, Governor Smith said:

"Where does Mr. Hoover's do-noth-

GOVERNOR SMITH ASSAILS ELEMENT OF REACTIONARIES

BOSTON

STARTS OUT ON 12-HOUR CAM-PAIGN THROUGH RHODE IS-
LAND, CONNECTICUT

By PAUL R. MALLON

Boston, Oct. 25.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith left a ringing cry against what he called the reactionary element of the republican party in the capital of this vital electoral state and set out today for a twelve-hour campaign through Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The democratic nominee carried with him the memory of a great reception as he started on his second phase of the all-important eastern seaboard battle.

His itinerary was to take him through Blackstone, Mass., into Providence, Rhode Island, by motor and thereafter by train through Hartford, Waterbury, Derby, Shelton, New Haven, Bridgeport and South Norwalk before he arrives in New York at 10:30 P. M.

His Boston appearance was an astounding and pleasant experience from which his friends drew deductions that he could easily carry the state. The Boston newspapers, republican and democratic, compared the reception to that of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh whose demonstration was up to this time unsurpassed.

The fact that he was saved from the mobs of over-enthusiastic and curious crowds was a miracle at which even the Boston police force marvel. They tried to protect him and Mrs. Smith during the parade and they were equally unsuccessful in their efforts to curb the seething throngs at the arena where he spoke.

In his speech last night, at which 13,000 persons were massed in the arena and 17,000 more were connected at two other halls by loud speakers, Smith made his answer to the Madison Square Garden speech of Herbert Hoover, his republican opponent. He took as his text Hoover's promise to "use words to convey meaning, not to hide it."

The candidate contended Hoover's attitude on farm relief, prohibition and water power was "a use of language to cover up something." He quoted as advocates of his platform upon these issues, former Pres. Roosevelt's gubernatorial campaigns in New York.

He pictured to the audience the possibility of Edmund H. Machold, New York republican chairman, suggesting to Hoover in a New York hotel room the possibility that a "socialism" charge might be the best answer to Smith's program.

The nominee again called attention to Chairman Work's renewal of the Sinclair Salt Creek oil lease when Work was secretary of the interior last February.

Taking up water power development as the first issue to be discussed, the governor said that not only was Hoover's acceptance speech vague on the subject, but his August 18 speech at Los Angeles also failed to express frankly the republican candidate's position.

If Hoover classed him as a "state socialist" because he stood for governmental ownership and control of public water power sites, he added, then Charles Evans Hughes, the late Theodore Roosevelt, Owen D. Young and other leading republicans "also are socialists." They stood with him on that issue, he asserted.

"Do not let them get a monopoly on what belongs to the state," the governor quoted President Roosevelt as saying of the "water power barons."

Turning to the farm relief issue, the candidate said:

Immature Cattle Are Classified

More or Less Generally Recognized at Many Large Central Markets.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A detailed description and explanation of the tentative market classes and grades of calves and weaners as set up by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, has just been published by the department. These market classes and grades, according to Don J. Slater, federal marketing specialist, are at present more or less generally recognized by the trade at many of the large central markets.

At practically all important central live stock markets a day's supply of immature cattle ranges from several hundred up to several thousand head. These animals have been and still are designated by various names at different markets, Mr. Slater says in the department's new publication. At some markets all such animals are termed calves, whereas at other markets they are called weaners, and at still other markets, usually the larger, more highly developed and specialized markets, part of them are known as calves and part as weaners.

Fall Into Two Groups.

When these immature animals are classified and graded in accordance with the system of tentative standard market classes and grades adopted by the bureau of agricultural economics, they naturally fall into two rather distinct groups because, when slaughtered, they produce two more or less distinct kinds of meat. As a general rule, immature cattle three months of age or younger produce a dressed carcass the meat of which is distinctly different from that obtained from older young cattle.

The meat produced by a large percentage of immature cattle which are approximately three months old or younger is known in the wholesale and retail meat trade as veal, whereas the carcasses produced by most of the immature cattle over three months old are known in the wholesale and retail meat trade as calf carcasses.

Base of Tentative Grades.

It is on the basis of these differences that the tentative grades of the bureau of agricultural economics are founded. The new publication discusses the market uses for calves, classes of slaughter calves, weight selections of slaughter calves, and grades of slaughter calves. Vealers are similarly covered. Copies of the publication, known as Circular 28-C, Market Classes and Grades of Calves and Vealers, may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Sodium Fluoride Will

Kill Lice on Chicks

Watch for lice! Body lice collect under the wings of young chicks and between the wing quills of young turkeys. Sodium fluoride or any good house powder sprinkled under the wings and among the down or feathers on the body will kill the lice. Head lice are almost white in color and are seldom found below the head. A small amount of melted lard or olive oil rubbed on the heads of chicks, poult, goslings and ducklings will kill these lice. Too much grease is almost as harmful as the lice. Dipping the tip of the finger in the melted lard once for the top of the head, once for each side; and once for the throat will not be too much.

Gigantic Oak

Possibly the best known tree in England is the Major oak in Sherwood forest. It is a real giant of the forest, 54 feet in girth. It is still in good condition, and in summer a troop of cavalry could shelter beneath it. Twenty people can squeeze into its hollow trunk.

Given Indian Name

It is believed that the catalpa tree got its name through association with the Catawba Indians, since Europeans first found the catalpa in the region occupied by these Indians.

Magpies' Vocabulary

Where are you going to keep that new car this winter? You certainly don't want to pay storage charges on it when for the same money you can have a garage of your own. We have many nice new garage plans and invite you to come in and let us quote you on any size you want.

A little boy from Canada, who had never seen a negro, was riding in New York with his uncle when he spied a colored lady. "Uncle, why does that woman black her face?"

"She doesn't, that's her natural color."

"Is she black like that all over?"

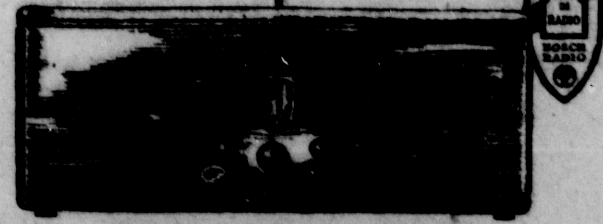

"Why, yes," uncle replied. The boy looked up beamingly at his uncle. "Gee, uncle, you know everything, don't you?"

Immature Cattle Are Classified

More or Less Generally Recognized at Many Large Central Markets.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A detailed description and explanation of the tentative market classes and grades of calves and weaners as set up by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, has just been published by the department. These market classes and grades, according to Don J. Slater, federal marketing specialist, are at present more or less generally recognized by the trade at many of the large central markets.

At practically all important central live stock markets a day's supply of immature cattle ranges from several hundred up to several thousand head. These animals have been and still are designated by various names at different markets. Mr. Slater says in the department's new publication. At some markets all such animals are termed calves, whereas at other markets they are called weaners, and at still other markets, usually the larger, more highly developed and specialized markets, part of them are known as calves and part as weaners.

Fall Into Two Groups.
When these immature animals are classified and graded in accordance with the system of tentative standard market classes and grades adopted by the bureau of agricultural economics, they naturally fall into two rather distinct groups because, when slaughtered, they produce two more or less distinct kinds of meat. As a general rule, immature cattle three months of age or younger produce a dressed carcass the meat of which is distinctly different from that obtained from older young cattle.

The meat produced by a large percentage of immature cattle which are approximately three months old or younger is known in the wholesale and retail meat trade as veal, whereas the carcasses produced by most of the immature cattle over three months old are known in the wholesale and retail meat trade as calf carcasses.

Base of Tentative Grades.
It is on the basis of these differences that the tentative grades of the bureau of agricultural economics are founded. The new publication discusses the market uses for calves, classes of slaughter calves, weight selections of slaughter calves, and grades of slaughter calves. Vealers are similarly covered. Copies of the publication, known as Circular 28-C, Market Classes and Grades of Calves and Vealers, may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Sodium Fluoride Will

Kill Lice on Chicks

Watch for lice! Body lice collect under the wings of young chicks and between the wing quills of young turkeys. Sodium fluoride or any good house powder sprinkled under the wings and among the down or feathers on the body will kill the lice. Head lice are almost white in color and are seldom found below the head. A small amount of melted lard or olive oil rubbed on the heads of chicks, poult, goslings and ducklings will kill these lice. Too much grease is almost as harmful as the lice. Dipping the tip of the finger in the melted lard once for the top of the head, once for each side; and once for the throat will not be too much.

N. P. FREIGHT TRAIN SMASH KILLS 10 COWS

Eighteen Cars Crash Through Split Switch Near Royalton

SERVICE DELAYED

Cars Thrown in Heap Over Four Tracks and Right of Way

Eighteen cars of the Northern Pacific railway company were smashed in a heap, tearing up four tracks, killing ten cows, and delaying train service for approximately 16 hours when a south bound freight train split a switch near Royalton yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Trains for the remainder of the day over that section of the road were routed around Carlton causing many hours delay as repair crews worked frantically clearing the wreckage, rescuing cattle from the overturned cars, and relaying track to permit clearance of trains.

Thirteen of the derailed cars carried cattle. Ten cows were killed while others were saved from the piled up wreckage. The wrecked freight cars were thrown over four track lines, ripping up the road bed and the rails. Wreckage was strewn over the right of way while one of the cars was hurled over a fence of the right of way.

F. E. Janneck, manager of the Fidelity store of this city was returning to Brainerd and was passing the train at the time of the wreck.

"The derailment happened when one of the cars in the middle of the train split a switch and started on another track," said Mr. Janneck, "there was a general pileup as cars were thrown all over the tracks, dragged by the engine," said Mr. Janneck.

STATE SOCIALISM AND WATER POWER

ONE of Governor Smith's favorite campaign topics is water power conservation and management. He maintains that the sources of water power and the generating plants should be owned by the State, says the Minneapolis Journal.

Exhibiting the same vagueness and lack of definite plan that characterize his talks on farm relief, immigration, inland waterways and other issues, he does not go the whole length of advocating complete State ownership. Apparently, his idea is that the State should merely retain ownership of the power and generate the current. This would then be sold to private agencies for distribution.

In entire consonance with his usual wait-and-see idea, the Governor adds that the State "can deal with distribution after study and research."

Now, the generation of electric current involves, according to the best authority, only one-third of the investment necessary to turn water power into electricity and then deliver it to the consumer. Generation takes a still smaller share of the total cost of operation.

Governor Smith argues that, as the State can borrow money at a lower rate of interest than private agencies, there would be a saving of value to the consumer. But against this must be set the loss of taxes now collected on privately owned hydro-electric plants. And also there must be considered the ever-present danger that politics and graft will swell the costs of publicly managed plants far above any saving in the interest account.

But the greatest danger of all, pointed out by Mr. Hoover in his New York speech, is the establishment of bureaucracy and the submergence of representative government.

The net savings of the Smith public ownership plan, supposing it were efficiently administered, are figured by an expert authority to be 24 cents a year to the average consumer in New York State.

But, as Governor Smith asserts, the present plan of State regulation is a failure, it follows that his scheme of having the State generate the current would still leave two-thirds of the problem without solution. The only hope would be "study and research," which is his convenient formula for disposing of problems he does not understand.

The truth is that the manufacture and distribution of electricity form a highly technical industry that is growing with marvelous rapidity. It is not an industry that the States or the Nation should on any account take over, but one that should be carefully regulated and controlled in the public interest. In many respects, it is on all fours with the older railroad industry. Neither public ownership nor public operation would work out in the public interests, but would be wasteful and inefficient.

All of which is just another example of a great economic problem which Governor Smith does not understand and cannot solve. On the other hand, Herbert Hoover has everything necessary for its wise handling in the interests of the public.

SENATOR SHIPSTEAD SAYS HE WILL HAVE TO THINK

ARTHUR NELSON, the Republican candidate for United States senator from Minnesota, appeared on the same platform with Senator Shipstead in Minneapolis Monday, and he seized the occasion to try to get Mr. Shipstead to answer these three questions:

How do you stand on the Eighteenth amendment?
How do you stand on the Volstead act?
Which of the presidential candidates do you support?

But Mr. Nelson didn't have any luck, continues the Duluth Herald.

Though he gave Mr. Shipstead five minutes of the time allotted him to answer these questions, Mr. Shipstead did not avail himself of the opportunity.

He did not answer the questions. He said they would require study, and that he would answer them later.

How much study? And when will he answer? Does he want to study until after November sixth and then answer them?

Now besides Senator Shipstead there are not many people in this state who couldn't answer those questions immediately. They have given them about all the study they are going to for the present, and they have made up their minds. They are for or against the prohibition amendment, they are for or against the prohibition statute, and they are for Hoover, Smith, Thomas or Foster for president.

But then not many of these people are running for office, with the hope of getting votes from both sides—a hope that, of course, is shattered the moment Mr. Shipstead answers these questions. That is why it is so interesting to know whether he wants to study them until after November sixth.

WILL BE A RATIFICATION

AL SMITH, happily, will be the means of strengthening prohibition tremendously, says the Mitchell, S. D., Republican. As a result of the overwhelming defeat now in prospect for him, prohibition will have a standing, a prestige, it never before enjoyed. This election will be a ratification of prohibition, 10 years after. It will be a nation-wide verdict, on a direct referendum to all the people, that prohibition has been tried and that it should be continued. This will be more impressive even than its original adoption by the legislatures of 46 out of 48 states. It will be a decision by the people themselves and those public officials who represent the people in the enforcement of prohibition will not fail to take heed.

WHERE DOES HE STAND?

THAT is one of the questions foremost in the minds of the voters with reference to Senator Shipstead's position on the presidency. Arthur E. Nelson has declared himself unequivocally for Herbert Hoover and the Hoover policies. Whom does Senator Shipstead favor for president? The voters have every right to know and they will demand to know before the campaign is over. Why should he fear to take the people of Minnesota into his confidence?—Wadena Pioneer Journal.

URGED 8 HOUR STEEL DAY

Induced Manufacturers to Establish Industry on That Basis After 30 Year Struggle.

WASHINGTON.—The intention of Herbert Hoover to keep to a high level the standards of the American home and to do so by continuing his efforts in behalf of labor is shown in a pamphlet, "Hoover and Labor," released by the Hoover for President Labor Council of the Republican National Committee.

During his entire career, beginning at the age of 12 when he was tossed into the world to earn his living, Mr. Hoover has worked wholeheartedly in the cause of the working man. As a laborer himself, as a worker in the mines in his youth and, since 1921, as Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover has studied the problems of American labor and has aided in the solution of many of them, the pamphlet shows.

Aided Long Fight in Steel Mills
Mr. Hoover's labor record is an open book. Policies that have benefited labor have won his unwavering support in every instance, the leaflet reveals.

"In supporting Mr. Hoover," it states "American workers will be voting for one of their own kind."

The brochure further goes on to show that Mr. Hoover's support of the principle of collective bargaining is not mere theory. Prior to 1922 the workers in the steel industry were working 12 hours a day. This condition Mr. Hoover deplored, as he believed that a shorter working day would not only be of untold benefit to the steel worker, but would result in the long run in a greater output and better craftsmanship.

To this end, in 1922, he brought together the steel manufacturers of America and induced them to establish eight hours throughout the entire steel industry. For thirty years organized labor had been fighting to this end and the pamphlet just issued shows that Mr. Hoover's efforts were successful in bringing to a close that long fight of the steel workers.

Mr. Hoover has always believed in collective bargaining and in addition he has constantly upheld the rights of workers to select their own representatives without interference, influence or coercion from any source. He has always opposed the seven-day week, once general in many industries.

Is High Wage Advocate

In 1920 he said: "In fixing hours of labor in industrial establishments at a point consistent with the health of employees and with proper opportunity for rest and recreation, there should in all cases be provision for one day's rest in seven."

"Mr. Hoover believes that the surest road to prosperity is that which leads to prosperity for the masses," the pamphlet says. "While advocating mass production and the use of labor saving machinery, he has earnestly advocated that labor share in the increased production through higher wages and the adoption of the best conditions of employment in the world. His record in the Department of Commerce and his public utterances demonstrate the earnestness and sincerity of his interest in the workers of our country, who have always looked upon him as a friend."

Digging into the public utterances of the Republican candidate for president, the pamphlet reveals that in his dealing with the question of the restriction of foreign immigration, Mr. Hoover believes that our first concern is to provide employment for our own people and others already here before we permit the admission of many from other countries to compete with American labor. At the same time, in his address of acceptance at Palo Alto, Calif., in August, he promised to do his utmost to amend the immigration laws to relieve unnecessary hardships upon families.

As a basis of protection for the American working man Mr. Hoover believes firmly in the Protective Tariff, the booklet reiterates in pointing out the dangers of a change in administration policies at the present crucial period.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

It is often said that the advertisements offer a liberal education. The new electrical appliances that take the drudgery out of housework first saw the light of day in the advertising columns. A vegetable substitute for silk is discovered, and you hear about it first through an advertisement.

What are the new models in motor-cars? The advertisements tell you, before you go to the auto show. What's the best show in town? What's the newest in hats and shoes and golf-togs? PAAVO NURMI TO BE FULL-FLEDGED MARATHON RUNNER

FINN WILL NOT TURN PROFESSIONAL

WILL DEVOTE 3 YEARS TRAINING TO ENTER OLYMPIC GAMES AT LOS ANGELES

NO RUNNER EVER ENTERED GAME WITH THOROUGHNESS SHOWN BY FINN
By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Paavo Nurmi will be a full-fledged marathon runner by 1929, but contrary to the expectations of American promoters will not turn professional. Instead, the marvelous little Finn will devote three years to preparing to win the marathon run at the Olympic games in Los Angeles in 1932.

If Nurmi has an outstanding quality in his athletic greatness it is thoroughness. No runner ever went about his work with the precision of Paavo. Now he has set his heart upon making the 1932 Olympic marathon race the climactic triumph of his career, and those who know him believe he will be successful.

Nurmi thus follows the lead set by Jole Ray, who once was the world's best miler, until Paavo pattered up, and who now is one of the better marathon runners.

Already, since the Olympic games at Amsterdam, Nurmi has broken the long standing records for 15 kilometres and 10 kilometres, as well as for one hour. Paavo collects records as conscientiously as an accountant.

Nurmi has a goal upon which his heart is fixed, and the fact that it is nearly four years away does not trouble him a bit. It takes patience to be a distance runner, in the first place, patience or a great conceit. When a runner has only one of these qualities, like Jole Ray, he is good. When he has both, like Nurmi, he is great.

It would not be surprising if the Finn, when he finally tackles the full marathon route of 26 miles 385 yards, shattered all existing records, professional and amateur.

Paavo has worked out for himself the science of distance running and has chosen as the length of his stride 1.75 metres. From this, he never varies, except to sprint, and he practically never sprints. Mile after mile, Nurmi covers the same distance with each stride, proceeding at the rate of 5.33 metres per second.

He kept this up for a full hour last month, breaking the famous record hung up by the great French runner Jean Bouin, 15 years ago.

INDEPENDENTS AND ALLEY KIDS EACH WIN 3 STRAIGHT

KIDS TAKE MOOSE NO. 2 INTO CAMP WHILE INDEPENDENTS HAND MOOSE NO. 1 DEFEAT

The Alley Kids took three from the Moose No. 2, and the Independents No. 2 took three from the Moose No. 1 last evening at the alleys.

SQUAD COMPLETES PRACTICES FOR TECH HIGH CLASH

GABIOU'S INJURIES SLOW IN IMPROVING, MAY NOT BE USED

GUIN HURDLES INELIGIBILITY OBSTACLE, WILL BE IN GAME TOMORROW

The Brainerd high school team will complete a heavy week of practice tonight in preparation for the game with St. Cloud Tech-High at the Granite City tomorrow afternoon. The team will enter the game in good shape as a whole. It is doubtful whether Gabiou will be in the game at all on account of knee and side injuries. He has been kept out of practice all week in the hope that his injuries might knit but he has been slow in coming around into shape. Rapid recovery will have to be made between now and game time if he will be used in any part of the game.

Donald Geist will be the other regular missing from the Brainerd line-up at the start of play. He will likely be out for the rest of the season on account of leg injuries.

Guin, who was ineligible a week ago in the game against Aitkin, will be back again and will strengthen the team both on offense and defense.

Brainerd will meet a team tomorrow made up of seasoned and well-drilled men. The St. Cloud team is coached by three different individuals, meaning that the men receive training two and three years before they make the regular team. Brainerd will find the team well versed in fundamentals and the general technique of play.

St. Cloud has met with only one defeat in the last three years and any team with such a record indicates that the team is well polished on general football knowledge.

Coch Warren Kasch has been working hard to get the boys in as good shape as possible to meet the great St. Cloud team and win or lose the team will be fighting all the way in tomorrow's battle.

One of the reasons Brainerd scheduled the St. Cloud team this year was because of the willingness on the part of the men to learn football and any team that has that quality can be relied upon to go against the best of them.

At present the line-up of the Brainerd team is still undecided. The game will get underway at 3:15 P. M. at the Tech-High grounds.

ABOUT FITZHARRIS AT ST. THOMAS

HALSEY HALL WRITING IN MINNEAPOLIS PAPER SPEAKS OF BRAINERD BOY

Halsey Hall, sports writer, speaking of William Fitzharris in a recent review of college sports, says: "Over at St. Thomas there was hubbub and hubaloo for the Cadets were working for their Memorial stadium debut against the Gopher Bees."

"The frosh had fair success. On one fake play, the fullback was sent right through the line and the fullback was one Fitzharris from Brainerd. He usually made plenty of yardage and it might be well for the boys concerned to keep an eye on this young man. He is built like Reichow and he hits hard with his shoulders and keeps on going. He is a fine prospect unless reliable signs fail."

HARRIS FIRED BY WASHINGTON, CAUGHT ON AT DETROIT

MORIARTY IF NOT AS MANAGER, MAY SHOW UP AS UMPIRE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Several other major league managers besides Bucky Harris and George Moriarty are due for changes before the 1929 baseball season rolls around.

At least three national league and two American league managers are slated for dismissal during the off season.

Harris, fired by Washington, caught on at Detroit as Moriarty's successor and the former Tigers boss may be fortunate enough to find a job waiting for him at Boston as manager of the Braves if Rogers Hornsby is sold to the Chicago Cubs. Moriarty, it appears almost certain, will be seen in the national league next season, if not as a manager, surely as an umpire, a job at which he was considerably more successful in the American league than as leader of the toothless Tigers.

New managers may be seen at the helm of the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians next season. Lena Blackburne may not be given another chance because of the White Sox failure to defeat the Cubs in the Chicago city series.

Rogers Peckinpaugh may or may not manage the Indians next season. If the club owners can find a suitable manager, Peckinpaugh probably will be relieved, although no one could be expected to do much better than Peckinpaugh did with the players he had at his disposal.

Even overlooking the New York Yankees' four straight games world series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, Bill McKechnie probably is through as manager of the Cardinals. The Scott himself is tired of the many strenuous campaigns he has been through during the last four seasons with the Pirates as well as the Cards.

Frank Snyder, who led the Houston Texas league club to a pennant in that league and then to the Dixie championship over Birmingham, and Billy Southworth, manager of the Rochester Red Wings, have been mentioned for McKechnie's place.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, president and manager of the Brooklyn Robins, is ready to relinquish his post as manager of the team and continue as president. Max Carey, captain of the Robins, will probably get the job.

RED GRANGE DENIES CHARGES OF PATERNITY

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Red Grange, the Illinois football player who made the number 77 famous, will be arraigned today in municipal court, charged with being the father of the infant son of Miss Helen Flogek, 22.

Grange was arrested late yesterday on a warrant issued Oct. 15 and is free on a $1,500 bond. The gridiron star denied the charges, saying "It is just blackmail."

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Harold

"Red" Grange, former matinee idol of inter-collegiate football, appeared before Judge William Fetzner today to answer to a charge of being the father of an illegitimate daughter. On motion of his counsel the case was continued until Nov. 13.

N. Y. GOLFER DISCOVERS SELF FINDING GOLF BALL

New York, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—A New York golfer has discovered a self-finding golf ball. While playing at the Briar Hills Country club, Charles A. Laurino drove one of his tee shots into the woods. When he found the ball, it lay about two feet from a skunk, brought down by the shot. He continued to play the ball, and no matter where he drove, the scent always led him straight to the ball.

ST. CLOUD PREPARES TO MEET BRAINERD

TECH IS ENGAGING IN A STIFF PRACTICE, EXPECTS A HARD GAME FRIDAY

St. Cloud Tech is discounting all stories about of Brainerd injuries and ineligibility and is preparing to put up a hard fight against Brainerd when the local high plays Tech at St. Cloud this coming Friday afternoon.

The St. Cloud Journal Press says, "Brainerd handed Aitkin an 18 to 0 defeat last Friday, while Tech high defeated Montevideo 13 to 0. Brainerd has great scoring possibilities, according to reports, and had things all their own way in the game last week with Aitkin. The slogan of the school is 'Beat St. Cloud' and the St. Cloud fans may find an inspired team, accompanied by numerous fans, invade St. Cloud Friday."

The St. Cloud Times says that "Brainerd is coming with a determination, if nothing else. According to advance reports the Brainerd team may be crippled through the ineligibility of two players but Coach Nichols refuses to heed this advance publicity and is preparing for one of the toughest games of the season."

Football's Prize Pessimist

By QUIN HALL.
LONG before the football season opened at Cornell University Coach Gil Dobie registered in with his annual wail of football woe.

Of all the pessimistic football coaches—and there are plenty who never see any silver lining to their football cloud, especially before the season opens—Gil Dobie is probably the most consistent. Long ago this became apparent and consequently he was tagged "Gloomy Gil," a nickname which has clung to him and will doubtless stick until he passes out of the picture.

Last year Cornell checked in with three wins out of eight games—which isn't a record tending to chase any gloom away from the veteran handler of gridiron warriors. It couldn't be said that last year's team, despite its showing, was not ably coached. While individual ability was sadly lacking there was plenty of team harmony and unified effort and that is always an indication of good coaching. The result of Dobie coaching was especially noticeable in the game with Princeton and the scoreless tie with Columbia and it was also apparent even in the games against Dartmouth and Pennsylvania.

Dobie has plenty of material at Ithaca but the fact that many of the candidates for the team are studying engineering and cannot get on the field until after five o'clock tends to make Gil's task a thorny one.

Having stated that this year's team at Cornell is the worst he has ever coached the gloomy guy has alibi-ed himself all over the campus and while loyal supporters of the red machine feel that the present squad will make a better showing than that made by the 1927 team, Dobie is still of the opinion that he hasn't what he would call a good football team. In fact, if urged, Gil will gloomily announce that he hasn't had a good football team for a long while.

Seventeen letter men reported back to Cornell this year and the rooters are hoping that the red-jacketed machine will develop into another outfit of the Kaw-Pfann type. But Dobie is not so optimistic.

"What good are a hundred letter men," wails the dour sage of Cayuga's hills, "if there aren't any football players among 'em?"

"George Pfann and Eddie Kaw were football players," continues Gloomy Gil. "They mastered the game and they loved nothing better than to smash through a line and drag a bunch of tacklers with them. We still have men who like to smash the line but recently I haven't seen any who have the ability to master the elusive art

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Red Grange, the Illinois football player who made the number 77 famous, will be arraigned today in municipal court, charged with being the father of the infant son of Miss Helen Floege, 22.

Grange was arrested late yesterday on a warrant issued Oct. 15 and is free on a $1,500 bond. The gridiron star denied the charges, saying "It is just black-mall."

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—Harold "Red" Grange, former matinee idol of inter-collegiate football, appeared before Judge William Fetzner today to answer to a charge of being the father of an illegitimate daughter. On motion of his counsel the case was continued until Nov. 13.

N. Y. GOLFER DISCOVERS SELF FINDING GOLF BALL

New York, Oct. 25.—(U.P.)—A New York golfer has discovered a self-finding golf ball. While playing at the Briar Hills Country club, Charles A. Laurino drove one of his tee shots into the woods. When he found the ball, it lay about two feet from a skunk, brought down by the shot. He continued to play the ball, and no matter where he drove, the skunk always led him straight to the ball.

ST. CLOUD PREPARES TO MEET BRAINERD

TECH IS ENGAGING IN A STIFF PRACTICE, EXPECTS A HARD GAME FRIDAY

St. Cloud Tech is discounting all stories about of Brainerd injuries and ineligibility and is preparing to put up a hard fight against Brainerd when the local high plays Tech at St. Cloud this coming Friday afternoon.

The St. Cloud Journal Press says, "Brainerd handed Aitkin an 18 to 0 defeat last Friday, while Tech high defeated Montevideo 13 to 0. Brainerd has great scoring possibilities, according to reports, and had things all their own way in the game last week with Aitkin. The slogan of the school is 'Beat St. Cloud' and the St. Cloud fans may find an inspired team, accompanied by numerous fans, invade St. Cloud Friday."

The St. Cloud Times says that "Brainerd is coming with a determination, if nothing else. According to advance reports the Brainerd team may be crippled through the ineligibility of two players but Coach Nichols refuses to heed this advance publicity and is preparing for one of the toughest games of the season."

Football's Prize Pessimist

By QUIN HALL.

LONG before the football season opened at Cornell University Coach Gil Dobie registered in with his annual wall of football woe.

Of all the pessimistic football coaches—and there are plenty who never see any silver lining to their football cloud, especially before the season opens—Gil Dobie is probably the most consistent. Long ago this became apparent and consequently he was tagged "Gloomy Gil," a nickname which has clung to him and will doubtless stick until he passes out of the picture.

Last year Cornell checked in with three wins out of eight games—which isn't a record tending to chase any gloom away from the veteran handler of gridiron warriors. It couldn't be said that last year's team, despite its showing, was not ably coached. While individual ability was sadly lacking there was plenty of team harmony and unified effort and that is always an indication of good coaching. The result of Dobie coaching was especially noticeable in the game with Princeton and the scoreless tie with Columbia and it was also apparent even in the games against Dartmouth and Pennsylvania.

Dobie has plenty of material at Ithaca but the fact that many of the candidates for the team are studying engineering and cannot get on the field until after five o'clock tends to make Gil's task a thorny one.

Having stated that this year's team at Cornell is the worst he has ever coached the gloomy guy has alibi-ed himself all over the campus and while loyal supporters of the red machine feel that the present squad will make a better showing than that made by the 1927 team, Dobie is still of the opinion that he hasn't what he would call a good football team. In fact, if urged, Gil will gloomily announce that he hasn't had a good football team for a long while.

Seventeen letter men reported back to Cornell this year and the rooters are hoping that the red-jacketed machine will develop into another outfit of the Kaw-Pfann type. But Dobie is not so optimistic.

"What good are a hundred letter men," wails the dour sage of Cayuga's hills, "if there aren't any football players among 'em?" "George Pfann and Eddie Kaw were football players," continues Gloomy Gil. "They mastered the game and they loved nothing better than to smash through a line and drag a bunch of tacklers with them. We still have men who like to smash the line but recently I haven't seen any who have the ability to master the elusive art of being a great football player."

But Dobie, noted as the famous Gloom, would naturally feel out of place looking at things through rose-colored spectacles, so it is easy to take his early prophecies with a grain of salt. Cornell may yet surprise the gloom dispenser.

Dobie, an old timer in the football business, has had a colorful career and, if for no other reason, he should be noted in the history of the game for his persistence in gloomy prophecy at the start of each new season.

In his playing days he was a rather so-so quarterback and his first big coaching assignment came when he went to the University of Washington. While there he built up a reputation as a builder of football teams which never met defeat. Under his tutoring Washington won every game played for the nine years he did the coaching. He was coach of the New team for a while, following his work at Washington, and has been on the job at Cornell for several years.

*CHESTERFIELD stands out as the mild cigarette that satisfies. That is because it has taste. Its mildness is not flat or insipid—Chesterfield has character—flavor—aroma—and appeal. Due first, to the ex-

Literary Digest poll who state that they did not vote in the last presidential election, 59 per cent record that they will vote republican this year and 38 per cent mark their ballots for the democratic candidate.

"Several democratic editors," The Literary Digest states editorially, "find cause for optimism in the fact that the poll of four years ago, while amazingly accurate in totals, showed a deviation from the popular vote of several states as registered in the actual election."

"The Digest itself is acting as a mere recorder of opinion, seeking and presenting facts in that spirit of non-partisanship, of honest desire to get at all sides of a complex question, which this periodical has made peculiarly its own."

"It presents its figures, vouches for the honesty and carefulness with which the poll was taken, and leaves its readers to draw their own conclusions."

The editor of The Literary Digest issues a caution in his columns to reinterpret the figures in case there is an eleventh hour shift of political sentiment.

"If there should be evidence," he writes, "of a wholesale shift from camp to camp this year, readers should take it into account and modify their reckoning from our poll figures accordingly."

"While we know of no shift of that character, it is only natural that many voters who marked the straw ballots for one candidate may change their minds and vote for the other, which would throw the forecast just that much out of line. If there is no such drift, of course the forecast would not be affected."

CHAMP PARADES HIS STUFF

Mushy Callahan of Los Angeles, junior welterweight champion of the world, who met Bobby Tracy of Buffalo in a ten-round bout at Chicago. Callahan, entirely recovered from his illness of last spring, is eager for a full season in his own class and has ambitions in the direction of the main welter title. Tracy, who is being taken on by Mushy over the weight, at 145 pounds, recently showed considerable style in defeating Floyd Hybert of Cleveland.

Freezing Cream

The bureau of standards says that the best method to hasten the freezing of cream in an electric refrigerator is to stir the cream to provide better contact between its container and the refrigerated surface.

Sun's Radiation

The intensity of the radiation from the sun has varied from about 1 per cent above normal at the time of sun spot maximum (1917) to about 1 per cent below the normal at the time of sunspot minimum (1913 and 1923).

CANNED TOMATOES ROUT BANDITS

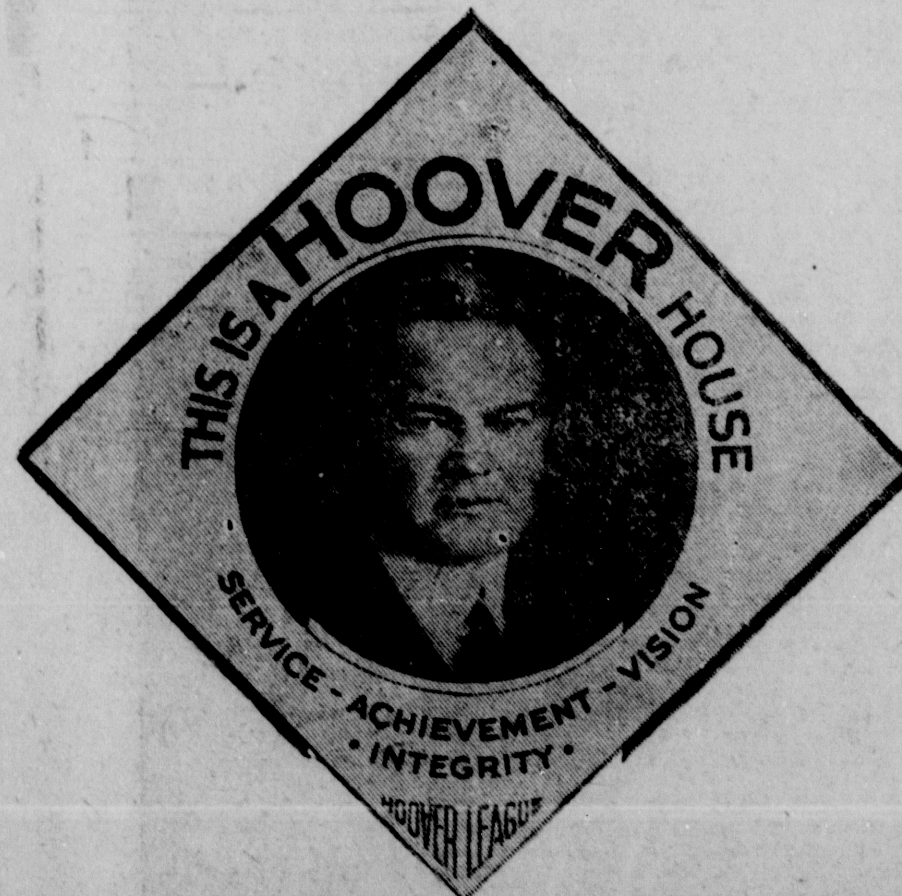

Mary Knowles, 16, demonstrating how she very effectively employed a can of tomatoes in the discouragement of two bandits who attempted to rob her in a Chicago grocery store at night. When the accurately aimed tomato can met with the sensitive head of bandit No. 1, he dropped his gun and fled, followed closely by bandit No. 2, who was taking no chances with Mary's quaint use of vegetables.

OUT TO FIGHT FOR THE BIBLE

These three girls, left to right, Anna LeRoy, Pauline Rader and Eva Edwards, all of Chicago, are soon leaving their homes and all that has heretofore constituted their world to go to Central India, where they will remain five years, with six other young people, as missionaries. Sponsored by the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle, they intend to set an example of unselfishness for the youth of America and to battle against those modern philosophies which oppose the literal Bible and encourage belief in such theories as evolution. They are seen examining one of the combination rail and steamship tickets which will take them on their 10,000 mile crusade.

HOUSEWIVES STRONG FOR HOOVER

This placard is being displayed conspicuously by housewives throughout the nation. Women caught the habit of working for Mr. Hoover during the war and still retain their enthusiasm for his leadership. "The King of Kings" Superb Picture

Cecil B. De Mille's production, "The King of Kings," was cordially received at the Lyceum theatre last night where it opened a three day engagement. The picture justifies all the praise it has evoked. The feeling of the spectators was reverent delight. Awesome scenes of Christ's persecution and suffering drew tears of sympathy, but in the last fifteen minutes the joy of those who beheld the Risen Lord and received His message was shared in by all. Never in the showing of historical plays are theatregoers so completely uplifted by transcendent emotion as in this viewing of "The King of Kings."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SHOWS CIVIC SPIRIT

Take up Many Matters of Interest and Concern to City and Community

LARGE ATTENDANCE PRESENT

Supper Attended by Chamber Members, Lions Club and Many Rotarians

After a rest of some months during the summer season, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce resumed fall and winter activities last night and the supper was attended by practically all of the Chamber members, Lions and Rotary clubs. The two luncheon clubs, as a rule, are well represented in the Chamber and unstintingly aid in civic matters.

County Fair

President R. E. Wyett presided. Attorney Hilding Swanson reported on the county fair situation. The Crow Wing County Fair Association meeting was held at Pequot on Monday, October 22, and a large gathering was present including the Chamber of Commerce committee, which latter has been in charge of the matter of trying to return the fair to Brainerd. There were present also numerous farmers from the district south of Brainerd. A resolution was offered by Mr. Swanson to amend the articles of incorporation that the location of the fair be changed from Pequot to Brainerd and a full discussion followed. Published notice will be issued as the change of location of holding the fair requires an amendment to the articles of incorporation, and the matter will be heard at Pequot on Monday, November 26, at 2 P. M. at a special meeting for such purpose. Among those who spoke in favor of the transfer from Pequot to Brainerd were F. H. Gruenhagen, Louis Wiedt, August Nelson, Mr. Wyett and Mr. Swanson. The citizens of Pequot are opposed to the change.

New Members Gained

New members joining the Chamber of Commerce last night were: J. W. Durr, merchant; Stanley Vanek, jeweler; J. Hershel Hardy of Chicago, real estate; M. V. Baker, of Grand View Lodge; Charles F. Trebostkie, monument works; R. D. Crawford, garage; R. F. B. Cote, manager Camp Lincoln for Boys.

Camp Lincoln for Boys

R. F. B. Cote, manager of Camp Lincoln for Boys on Hubert Lake, told of the increasing patronage enjoyed by the camp, of $40,000 invested there and $8,000 improvements contemplated for next year, of the capacity enlarged to take care of 150 boys, of the business it brought to Brainerd and the lake country, and then asked for cooperation from the Chamber to improve the trail leading to the camp. President Wyett named as a road committee R. R. Gould, Frank G. Hall, Joseph Kraus, John A. Hoffbauer, F. H. Gruenhagen and Mrs. Winifred Albright.

Airport Matters

John A. Hoffbauer presented for the consideration of the Chamber of Commerce the fact that Rosko Brothers have spent $2,000 in machinery and $3,000 in labor improving their airport. On motion, a rising vote of thanks was extended Rosko Brothers for the spirit they have shown in making such an improvement to stimulate air travel to Brainerd.

On motion carried a committee is to ascertain when the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General confers at St. Paul regarding airmail contracts and that the Chamber will make an energetic effort to have Brainerd linked in airmail service. A suggestion of the postoffice department that a roof be lettered "Brainerd" so that air travel will be able to identify the city, will also be acted on. Assistant Postmaster Wm. A. Spencer was made chairman of a committee to take cognizance of all these matters.

John H. Krekelberg

John H. Krekelberg submitted his resignation as chairman of the industrial committee. It was taken under advisement, as he has done remarkable work with his committee members in establishing a garment factory, boat factory and other industries here.

Lake Advertising

President Wyett spoke on the need of lake advertising before the season got under way. He gave his plans to the Chamber and a committee is to be named to consider same.

New Dairy Project

W. J. Hall spoke on the value of dairying and cited figures to back his viewpoint. He called on F. H. Gruenhagen and the latter explained a proposition broached by S. R. Adair, that 100 men of Brainerd donate $100 each to buy and distribute sires among the farmers. On motion carried, the project was endorsed by the Chamber.

R. R. Gould spoke on the Greater Minnesota Association and the 10,000 Lakes Association advertising matter, how it had been broadened to include agricultural, manufacturing and other data in addition to lake, resort and recreational activities.

Others speaking on lake advertising were Ernest Butler, Ed Gruenhagen, Frank G. Hall.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton spoke of Brainerd's low power rate and that it should be given wide publicity to draw manufacturing interests to Brainerd. He quoted League of Municipalities statistics. Mr. Fullerton was named chairman on a power rate committee.

W. H. Gemmell, president of the Minnesota & International railway, spoke on the value of an increased dairying community and of the low power rate which Brainerd enjoys.

YOUNG PEOPLE SHOW FRIENDLY SPIRIT

First Presbyterian Church Crowded as Dedication Services Continue

NEW ACQUAINTANCES FORMED

Women of Congregation to be Hostesses to Women of Community Tonight

It was the young people's turn last evening to rejoice in the completion of the First Presbyterian church and to this end several hundred young people from all parts of the city crowded the beautiful church to its doors, heard the sincere appreciations of the various speakers of the work accomplished and became better acquainted with each other at the social hour which followed the service.

There mingled with the attendance last evening a spirit of close friendship as young people from different churches of the city joined with the young people of the First Presbyterian church in happiness attained from the creation of the new church home.

Of the dedication services already held none were more sincere than last evening's.

"We want you to share our happiness in the completion of our church," said Miss Helen Marie Stadlbauer as she extended greetings to the young people of other churches. "We have watched the advance in construction of the building step by step and our happiness now that it is completed, is great. We want to become better acquainted with you and we want you to know us better. We are happy you are here and are very happy to greet you."

Carl Zapffe, Jr., accepted the greetings on behalf of the other young people of other churches saying in part: "We feel that a distinct honor has been conferred on us through your welcome invitation to join with you in your thanksgiving."

"My greetings tonight to you are in the way of congratulations," said Rev. Bruce McCullough, of Calvary Presbyterian church, Minneapolis, speaker of the evening. "You are more fortunate than other young people in the respect that you will worship in beautiful church home atmosphere. You have great reason to rejoice."

Rev. McCullough's talk to the young people concerned the need of prayer and the following of God's wishes.

Miss Arlene Hagberg was pianist of the evening with Roland Jenkins conducting the singing. Mrs. C. H. Larson, superintendent of the Sunday school presided and introduced the speakers. Rev. W. J. Smith gave the invocation and Rev. A. G. Patterson, the benediction. Dr. G. I. Baudoux rendered a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. Walter F. Wieland. Tonight the women of the church will be hostesses to the women of the community. A special program has been arranged.

ABSENT VOTER'S LAW EXPLAINED

Directions to Follow in Recording Vote by Mail to Legal Voting Place

CERTAIN STEPS NECESSARY

Questions Regarding Vote Casting May Be Made to Mrs. W. C. Cobb; Answer in Dispatch

At the board meeting of the League of Women Voters held at the home of Mrs. Rose Parker Tuesday afternoon, it was decided that since both political parties are maintaining headquarters in Brainerd, where voters may obtain information, and since the only information proper for the League to give out would concern the technique of voting and the laws relating to qualifications of voters, the League could better perform that service by answering questions through the columns of the Daily Dispatch. The Dispatch generously agreed to furnish space for such a purpose and, therefore, any questions concerning the business of casting a vote addressed to Mrs. W. C. Cobb, 708 North 7th street, will be answered if the answer is obtainable. It is not necessary to sign such questions, if the questioner prefers to remain anonymous, and it is not necessary to write—just telephone to 872-L-J.

It was suggested that the steps necessary for the absent voter to take be explained at this time. First, who is an absent voter? According to Sec. 368 of the 1928 edition of the election laws of Minnesota: "A person shall not be considered to have gained a residence in any county in which he has come for temporary purposes merely, without the intention of making such county his home." Par. 2. Par. 9 states: "The mere intention to acquire a new residence, without the fact of removal, shall avail nothing; neither shall the fact of removal without the intention."

In other words, you do not gain a residence in a place because you work there unless you declare your intention of making that place your permanent home. Your residence is where your family resides, and there you must vote. But, in order to save the expense of going home to vote, the absent voter's law was passed. Those living in cities of the first, second and third class—in towns of over 10,000 inhabitants—cannot vote by mail unless they have registered. But, as Minnesota now has a permanent registration law, it is necessary to register only once unless failure to vote at least once in two years in which elections are held has invalidated such registration, in which case it will be necessary to register again. Those who reside in towns of 10,000 population or under, and those who have registered, may vote by mail by applying to the county auditor, C. W. Mahlum for application blanks. On the back of such application blanks will be found an oath which must be taken before some officer authorized to administer oaths, after being sworn to, such officer must affix his seal, if he have a seal. Remember that the seal is useless unless the oath is signed by an officer. The clerk of the court or any notary public could act, or any county or city officer having an official seal.

It is also necessary to enclose 35c with your application blank. This is to pay the cost of furnishing and printing the application blanks, the voters certificate and envelopes, and the cost of postage both ways. If there is any surplus, it is turned into the county treasury and credited to the general revenue fund.

When you receive your ballot, with envelope, you will also receive a voter's certificate, and on the back of this you will find all the necessary directions for voting by mail. One of the requirements is that you must vote in the presence of a witness, but said witness must not see how you vote. You must also have the witness sign the certificate on the back of the return envelope. Usually, the postmaster, or his assistant, will perform this service. Be sure and mail your ballot so that it will reach your home town on or before election day, or else it will not be counted.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SHOWS CIVIC SPIRIT

Take up Many Matters of Interest and Concern to City and Community

LARGE ATTENDANCE PRESENT
Supper Attended by Chamber Members, Lions Club and Many Rotarians

After a rest of some months during the summer season, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce resumed fall and winter activities last night and the supper was attended by practically all of the Chamber members, Lions and Rotary clubs. The two luncheon clubs, as a rule, are well represented in the Chamber and unstintingly aid in civic matters.

County Fair

President R. E. Wyett presided. Attorney Hilding Swanson reported on the county fair situation. The Crow Wing County Fair Association meeting was held at Pequot on Monday, October 22, and a large gathering was present including the Chamber of Commerce committee, which latter has been in charge of the matter of trying to return the fair to Brainerd. There were present also numerous farmers from the district south of Brainerd. A resolution was offered by Mr. Swanson to amend the articles of incorporation that the location of the fair be changed from Pequot to Brainerd and a full discussion followed. Published notice will be issued as the change of location of holding the fair requires an amendment to the articles of incorporation, and the matter will be heard at Pequot on Monday, November 26, at 2 P. M. at a special meeting for such purpose. Among those who spoke in favor of the transfer from Pequot to Brainerd were F. H. Gruenhagen, Louis Wiedl, August Nelson, Mr. Wyett and Mr. Swanson. The citizens of Pequot are opposed to the change.

New Members Gained

New members joining the Chamber of Commerce last night were: J. W. Durr, merchant; Stanley Vanek, jeweler; J. Hershel Hardy of Chicago, real estate; M. V. Baker, of Grand View Lodge; Charles F. Trehtokkie, monument works; R. D. Crawford, garage; R. F. B. Cote, manager Camp Lincoln for Boys.

Camp Lincoln for Boys

R. F. B. Cote, manager of Camp Lincoln for Boys on Hubert Lake, told of the increasing patronage enjoyed by the camp, of $40,000 invested there and $8,000 improvements contemplated for next year, of the capacity enlarged to take care of 150 boys, of the business it brought to Brainerd and the lake country, and then asked for cooperation from the Chamber to improve the trail leading to the camp. President Wyett named as a road committee R. R. Gould, Frank G. Hall, Joseph Kraus, John A. Hoffbauer, F. H. Gruenhagen and Mrs. Winifred Albright.

Airport Matters

John A. Hoffbauer presented for the consideration of the Chamber of Commerce the fact that Rosko Brothers have spent $2,000 in machinery and $3,000 in labor improving their airport. On motion, a rising vote of thanks was extended Rosko Brothers for the spirit they have shown in making such an improvement to stimulate air travel to Brainerd.

On motion carried a committee is to ascertain when the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General confers at St. Paul regarding airmail contracts and that the Chamber will make an energetic effort to have Brainerd linked in airmail service. A suggestion of the postoffice department that a roof be lettered "Brainerd" so that air travel will be able to identify the city, will also be acted on. Assistant Postmaster Wm. A. Spencer was made chairman of a committee to take cognizance of all these matters.

John H. Krekelberg

John H. Krekelberg submitted his resignation as chairman of the industrial committee. It was taken under advisement, as he has done remarkable work with his committee members in establishing a garment factory, boat factory and other industries here.

Lake Advertising

President Wyett spoke on the need of lake advertising before the season got under way. He gave his plans to the Chamber and a committee is to be named to consider same.

New Dairy Project

W. J. Hall spoke on the value of dairying and cited figures to back his viewpoint. He called on F. H. Gruenhagen and the latter explained a proposition broached by S. R. Adair, that 100 men of Brainerd donate $100 each to buy and distribute sires among the farmers. On motion carried, the project was endorsed by the Chamber.

R. R. Gould spoke on the Greater Minnesota Association and the 10,000 Lakes Association advertising matter, how it had been broadened to include agricultural, manufacturing and other data in addition to lake resort and recreational activities.

Others speaking on lake advertising were Ernest Butler, Ed Gruenhagen, Frank G. Hall.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton spoke of Brainerd's low power rate and that it should be given wide publicity to draw manufacturing interests to Brainerd. He quoted League of Municipalities statistics. Mr. Fullerton was named chairman on a power rate committee.

W. H. Gemmell, president of the Minnesota & International railway, spoke on the value of an increased dairying community and of the low power rate which Brainerd enjoys.

RECEIVES NEW APPOINTMENT

J. H. Rasch Named Head of National Tea Co. Store; Miss Muriel O'Brien to Assist

Appointment was announced today of J. H. Rasch, life long resident of Brainerd to the position of manager of the National Tea Co. of this city which is now comfortably located in its new store at 606 Laurel street.

Mr. Rasch was born in Brainerd and attended schools here. He was formerly associated with the Red Owl store of this city and in other parts of the district.

His connection with the National Tea Co. is not a new venture as he was formerly with the company. Miss Muriel O'Brien will be his assistant here for the present. G. H. Travis, district manager was in the city today supervising the change.

YOUNG PEOPLE SHOW FRIENDLY SPIRIT

First Presbyterian Church Crowded as Dedication Services Continue

NEW ACQUAINTANCES FORMED

Women of Congregation to be Hostesses to Women of Community Tonight

It was the young people's turn last evening to rejoice in the completion of the First Presbyterian church and to this end several hundred young people from all parts of the city crowded the beautiful church to its doors, heard the sincere appreciations of the various speakers of the work accomplished and became better acquainted with each other at the social hour which followed the service.

There mingled with the attendance last evening a spirit of close friendship as young people from different churches of the city joined with the young people of the First Presbyterian church in happiness attained from the creation of the new church home.

Of the dedication services already held none were more sincere than last evening's.

"We want you to share our happiness in the completion of our church," said Miss Helen Marie Stadlbauer as she extended greetings to the young people of other churches. "We have watched the advance in construction of the building step by step and our happiness now that it is completed, is great. We want to become better acquainted with you and we want you to know us better. We are happy you are here and are very happy to greet you."

Carl Zapffe, Jr., accepted the greetings on behalf of the other young people of other churches saying in part: "We feel that a distinct honor has been conferred on us through your welcome invitation to join with you in your thanksgiving."

"My greetings tonight to you are in the way of congratulations," said Rev. Bruce McCullough, of Calvary Presbyterian church, Minneapolis, speaker of the evening, "you are more fortunate than other young people in the respect that you will worship in beautiful church home atmosphere. You have great reason to rejoice."

Rev. McCullough's talk to the young people concerned the need of prayer and the following of God's wishes.

Miss Arlene Hagberg was pianist of the evening with Roland Jenkins conducting the singing. Mrs. C. H. Larson, superintendent of the Sunday school presided and introduced the speakers. Rev. W. J. Smith gave the invocation and Rev. A. G. Patterson, the benediction. Dr. G. I. Badaux rendered a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. Walter F. Wieland. Tonight the women of the church will be hostesses to the women of the community. A special program has been arranged.

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgewood

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill. When Montague insults her Janet becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and wants to divorce his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his little daughter, Alice. John Montague dies, leaving $200,000 to Janet, and later she meets Wyndham Stonor, English playwright, who becomes interested in her. But Janet is falling in love with Leonard. Churchill operates on Alice Quigg and calls on Janet after the operation. They are surprised by detectives hired by Mrs. Churchill. Since Janet is in negligee and David has removed his coat to prepare supper, the detectives leave satisfied. Leonard tells Janet he is in love with her, but the next afternoon she sees him in a car with Mrs. Churchill. David Churchill tells Janet he is leaving for Canada, but Leonard has convinced Amy Churchill that Janet has no designs on her husband, so she withdraws her suit for divorce. Leonard proposes to Janet.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVII.

MEANWHILE Amy Churchill was attempting to smooth out her matrimonial wrinkles. David was away in Canada on a much-needed vacation, while she remained in New York.

Amy wrote three letters. In them she stated that she was convinced of his innocence, and had therefore instructed her lawyers to drop the proceedings against him.

And although she sent them by registered mail to the correct address, she did not receive any answer.

Meanwhile, she accepted an invitation to stay with some wealthy friends at their country estate on Long Island. She was weak and run down, so it was very much to be wondered at that Amy on her return to New York went down with double pneumonia.

A physician was called in, a friend of her husband, and twenty-four hours later, he had Amy moved to a private room in a hospital, while her temperature soared and soared. It was at the interesting point that David, to whom they had telegraphed, returned to the city.

He was bronzed and well, but there was a grim line to his lips. As the train from the North had been nearing New York, David had bought a paper and had read a small item that announced the engagement of Janet Wilde, the daughter of the late Fenimore Wilde, to Leonard Quigg, nephew of the well-known artist.

Janet, David reflected, had played the game with him. He had to admit that. Never, since he had known her, had she held out hopes. And now she was going to be married—to a young man.

Suddenly David felt very middle-aged. He had been chasing a rainbow, he told himself, only the rainbow had not led to what he had expected. He was a middle-aged surgeon, he assured himself, and he had been a fool to think of romance.

As for Amy—well, he did not know. He did not imagine that their life could ever be built up again.

But that was before his brother-doctors told him that Amy was in danger—in extreme danger.

When he saw her there, white, delirious, lying on the hospital bed, David began to regret. She was the mother of his children, he reflected. The children were away, and he was glad of it, but how would he be able to face them—if anything went wrong?

Then memories of other days flooded his consciousness. He remembered that evening, years before, when he had walked with Amy in the moonlight. There had been an overpowering perfume of honeysuckle, and the beauty of the girl had almost made him swoon. It was that night that she had promised to marry him. How gorgeously lovely she had been, and how his heart had raced when he had realized that he, an unknown doctor, had won this pearl beyond price! How he had prized her then—and what was that nurse saying?

Like other specialists, this master of the scalpel knew but little of medical lore outside his own field, so that David was as pathetically in the hands of his brother-doctors as any layman. And now the nurse was saying that her patient had a chance of life.

At that, there awakened within the heart of David Churchill an intense desire that Amy should be spared to him. How was it that he had ever strayed? Why? Could not the aftermath of that honey-suckle-scented evening have been something precious, and rare, something to be guarded, and cherished throughout all time? Would it have been so?

Such was his remorse that a great chivalry was his. It had been all his fault. If the love that had been Amy's for him, he argued, had grown dim, then whose fault? Not Amy's! His!

There came memories, too, of the birth of his children. How he had loved her then, when he had held her close to him as together they had peered down into the eyes of that new life that they had loved her then! Yes, he had loved her then!

The desire that she should live and be spared to him, so that he could make amends, increased.

until it became a stabbing pain within him, and still those grave-faced physicians and the silent-footed nurses bade him hope—and the mere fact that they did so, made him realize how near he was to losing her.

Hours went by, hours of pain and remorse that became days. For David, it seemed as though the clock had stopped, and that the calendar had ceased to be. Life was just hour after hour of leaden moments, while they all fought for that life that had suddenly become so inexpressibly dear to him.

And at last, after incalculable time, they told him that Amy was out of danger.

"That's good!" David said gruffly. "That's good!" He walked quickly away to the room that they had given him for himself so that he should be near his wife, and once the door was closed upon him, tears overwhelmed him, tears of which he was not ashamed.

Then, calling himself a weakling and a fool, he prepared to face that interview that he must have with his wife.

It was delayed until Amy was almost convalescent, but one evening as the sun was setting he sat alone beside the bed.

His hand groped out and touched hers, and those thin fingers gave the response.

"You know I love you that—there can never be anyone but you—if we can start over again?" David asked, his voice husky.

She smiled up at him.

"Have I lost my beauty?" she asked.

He brought her mirror, and raised her head by slipping his arm under the pillow.

"Am I dreadful, David?" she asked again, but in her voice was a note of coquetry which now he found enchanting.

"Lovelier than ever," he told her. "Do we begin over again? When you're better—let's go off somewhere—just you and I alone in the car."

"A second honeymoon," she agreed. "Are you sure, David, sure that you want me?"

He bent over the bed and kissed her, and then they remained silent in the fast darkening room, but the grip of their fingers told each other that they would begin all over again.

When she was asleep that evening, David decided that he would tell Janet, and never again attempt to speak to her. So he telephoned to her at the studio, and told her of Amy's illness and of their reconciliation.

"You knew I was making a fool of myself," he admitted over the wire, "but it's over now. I thought you might like to know—as you must be happy in your engagement—that, well, Janet, things are as they used to be between Amy and me."

"I am so glad," Janet told him sincerely. "I knew that it would come out that way—the best of luck, David! The best of luck, and good-bye!"

SEN. ROBINSON IN THE CORN AND WHEAT COUNTRY

SEEKS WITH RENEWED VIGOR FARM VOTES IN THIS SECTION

POUNDS ON HOOVER'S DECLARATION SMITH'S FARM RELIEF IS "STATE SOCIALISM"

Willmar, Minn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson T. Robinson, democratic nominee for vice president, swung through the corn and wheat country today with renewed vigor on the theory that Herbert Hoover's speech in New York City had placed the farm states definitely in the democratic column.

He pounded on Hoover's declaration that the farm relief program is "state socialism." Robinson has found, he believed, intense resentment among the farmers against what they consider a slur on their political beliefs.

"Hoover has branded them socialists," Robinson said. When his train stopped here en route from Sioux Falls, S. D., for Fargo, N. D., there was a large crowd at the station. He discussed farm relief, Smith's labor record and tolerance.

"Hoover's New York speech pronounces the doom of all legislation acceptable to the farming interests," Robinson said. "His state socialism remark not only proves his lack of sympathy but also his prejudiced viewpoint against progress."

Robinson was elated over Senator Norris' switch to Smith. He said it will be a tremendous force in swinging the farm states into the democratic column.

The vice presidential nominee will complete his campaign with a rally in Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 5.

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill. When Montague insults her Janet becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and wants to divorce his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his little daughter, Aliee. John Montague dies, leaving $200,000 to Janet, and later she meets Wyndham Stonor, English playwright, who becomes interested in her. But Janet is falling in love with Leonard. Churchill operates on Alice Quigg and calls on Janet after the operation. They are surprised by detectives hired by Mrs. Churchill. Since Janet is in negligee and David has removed his coat to prepare supper, the detectives leave satisfied. Leonard tells Janet he is in love with her, but the next afternoon she sees him in a car with Mrs. Churchill. David Churchill tells Janet he is leaving for Canada, but Leonard has convinced Amy Churchill that Janet has no designs on her husband, so she withdraws her suit for divorce. Leonard proposes to Janet.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVII.

MEANWHILE Amy Churchill was attempting to smooth out her matrimonial wrinkles. David was away in Canada on a much-needed vacation, while she remained in New York. Amy wrote three letters. In them she stated that she was convinced of his innocence, and had therefore instructed her lawyers to drop the proceedings against him. And although she sent them by registered mail to the correct address, she did not receive any answer.

Meanwhile, she accepted an invitation to stay with some wealthy friends at their country estate on Long Island. She was weak and run down, so it was not very much to be wondered at that Amy on her return to New York went down with double pneumonia.

A physician was called in, a friend of her husband, and twenty-four hours later, he had Amy moved to a private room in a hospital, while her temperature soared and soared. It was at the interesting point that David, to whom they had telegraphed, returned to the city.

He was bronzed and well, but there was a grim line to his lips. As the train from the North had been nearing New York, David had bought a paper and had read a small item that announced the engagement of Janet Wilde, the daughter of the late Fenimore Wilde, to Leonard Quigg, nephew of Janet. David reflected, had played the game with him. He had to admit that. Never, since he had known her, had she held out hopes. And now she was going to be married—to a young man.

Suddenly David felt very middle-aged. He had been chasing a rainbow, he told himself, only the rainbow had not led to what he had expected. He was a middle-aged surgeon, he assured himself, and he had been a fool to think of romance. As for Amy—well, he did not know. He did not imagine that their life could ever be built up again.

But that was before his brother-doctors told him that Amy was in danger—in extreme danger.

When he saw her there, white, delicious, lying on the hospital bed, David began to regret. She was the mother of his children, he reflected. The children were away, and he was glad of it, but how would he be able to face them—if anything went wrong?

Then memories of other days flooded his consciousness. He remembered that evening, years before, when he had walked with Amy in the moonlight. There had been an overpowering perfume of honeysuckle, and the beauty of the girl had almost made him swoon. It was that night that she had promised to marry him. How gorgeously lovely she had been, and how his heart had raced when he had realized that he, an unknown doctor, had won this pearl beyond price! How he had prized her then—and what was that nurse saying?

Like other specialists, this master of the scalpel knew but little of medical lore outside his own field, so that David was as pathetically in the hands of his brother-doctors as any layman. And now the nurse was saying that her patient had a chance of life.

At that, there awakened within the heart of David Churchill an intense desire that Amy should be spared to him. How was it that he had ever strayed? Why? Could not the aftermath of that honeysuckle-scented evening have been something precious, and rare, something to be guarded, and cherished throughout all time? Would it have been so?

Such was his remorse that a great chivalry was his. It had been all his fault. If the love that had been Amy's for him, he argued, had grown dim, then whose the fault? Not Amy's! His!

There came memories, too, of the birth of his children. How he had loved her then, when he had held her close to him as together they had peered down into the eyes of that new life that their love had called forth. Yes, he had loved her then! The desire that she should live and be spared to him, so that he could make amends, increased.

until it became a stabbing pain within him, and still those grave-faced physicians and the silent-footed nurses bade him hope—and the mere fact that they did so, made him realize how near he was to losing her.

Hours went by, hours of pain and remorse that became days. For David, it seemed as though the clock had stopped, and that the calendar had ceased to be. Life was just that hour of leaden moments, while they all fought for that life that had suddenly become so inexpressibly dear to him.

And at last, after incalculable time, they told him that Amy was out of danger.

"That's good!" David said gruffly. "That's good!"

He walked quickly away to the room that they had given him for himself so that he should be near his wife, and once the door was closed upon him, tears overwhelmed him, tears of which he was not ashamed.

Then, calling himself a weakling and a fool, he prepared to face that interview that he must have with his wife.

His hand groped out and touched hers, and those thin fingers gave the response.

"You know I love you—that there can never be anyone but you—if we can start over again?" David asked, his voice husky.

She smiled up at him.

"Have I lost my beauty?" she asked.

He brought her mirror, and raised her head by slipping his arm under the pillow.

"Am I dreadful, David?" she asked again, but in her voice was a note of coquetry which now he found enchanting.

"Lovelier than ever," he told her. "Do we begin over again? When you're better—let's go off somewhere—just you and I alone in the car."

"A second honeymoon," she agreed. "Are you sure, David, sure that you want me?"

He bent over the bed and kissed her, and then they remained silent in the fast darkening room, but the grip of their fingers told each other that they would begin all over again.

When she was asleep that evening, David decided that he would tell Janet, and never again attempt to speak to her. So he telephoned to her at the studio, and told her of Amy's illness and of their reconciliation.

"You knew I was making a fool of myself," he admitted over the wire, "but it's over now. I thought you might like to know—as you must be happy in your engagement—that, well, Janet, things are as they used to be between Amy and me!"

"I am so glad," Janet told him sincerely. "I knew that it would come out that way—the best of luck, David! The best of luck, and good-bye!"

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Co.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON PETITION TO SELL, MORTGAGE OR LEASE LAND

No. 2528. State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss., in Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Freeman W. Heald, deceased. The State of Minnesota to all persons interested in the sale of certain lands belonging to said estate. The petition of Joseph G. Heald as representative of the above named estate, being duly filed in this court representing that it is necessary for the best interest of said estate and of all interested therein that certain lands of said estate described therein be sold and praying that a license be granted to him to sell the same.

No. Therefore, You and each of you, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms, in the Court House in the City of Brainerd, County of Crow Wing, State of Minnesota, on the 12th day of November, 1928, at 10 o'clock A. M., why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

WITNESS, The Judge of said court, and the seal of said court, this 15th day of October, 1928.

L. B. KINDER, Judge of Probate Court.

MAL CLARK, Attorney for Petitioner. 11643Th

She Gained Weight With McCoy's Tablets

You remember her of course—not so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your money will be refunded.

Just ask for McCoy's Tablets at H. P. Dunn's, Johnson's Pharmacy or any drug store. Distributed by McCoy's Laboratories, Inc., also distributors of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil—there is none better.
